

Training as an Aircraft Mechanic in Maintenance Technology with Lufthansa Technik AG

The highest priority for Lufthansa is the perfect functioning of their aircraft and their systems. As an Aircraft Mechanic in Maintenance Technology, you will use know-how and sure instinct to ensure safety during take-offs, flights and landings. You will work in a team doing aircraft inspections and will carry out maintenance work on mechanical as well as on electrical/electronic systems. You will work independently with drawings and regulations which are often written in English. Since your knowledge is required round the clock, working shifts is a matter of course for you.

If you are interested in a responsible profession with the highest demands on safety then: welcome to the Lufthansa Base!
