

Lateral Entry/JOPP

Those who would like to develop their skills and personality further must be open to trying something new. At Lufthansa, career changers with humanities, natural or social science backgrounds are also welcome. Take advantage of our "JOPP" ("Join our Practice Program") offer and get yourself fit for business as a learning staff member!

With Lufthansa you can experience applied business economics, corporate culture and team spirit, live and in color.

JOPP is a time-limited (max. 24 months) practically-oriented program that is specifically aimed at graduates from economics-unrelated study fields. Within the course of the program you will get to know your expert department in depth. You will have clearly-defined tasks and responsibilities, and receive comprehensive insights into the fascinating world of the airline industry.

Enhance your business career opportunities by acquiring business economics competence in an international environment.

Facts

- Integrated into an experienced team, you will work on actual projects and complete real tasks. In the style of "learning by doing" you will gather substantiated and hands-on business economics expertise that will help qualify you for a job in the business world.
- Your JOPP program assignment will cover a maximum of 24 months.
- If positions become vacant you will always find them in our current "job offers" from which you can then apply directly online.
- Your gross salary will be 2,100 Euros a month.

Requirements

- You have recently and successfully completed your studies in natural sciences, arts and humanities or social sciences.
- Although you have not had business training, you are however interested in business management coherences and processes.
- You are successful in your field and would like to acquire additional qualification.
